DESPERATION AND A DENOUEMENT.—The Albany Standard tells a highly dramatic story of a man who on coming home, saw through the window of his house, a stranger, young and good looking, caressing his wife. Maddened, he rushed to his wood pile seized an axe, burst into the room, and pounced upon them, knocking down the stranger and doing his best to beat his wife's brains out. After knocking down the stove pipe also, which nearly extinguished the baby in the cradle, he took breath. The young and good looking man was gone, and his wife was senseless. It then came to light that the stranger was his own son—the long lost one—who had returned from California unexpectedly.

FIRE AT PRESCOTT.—About 2 o'clock on the afternoon of December 30, a fire broke out in the building occupied by LITTLE & WALLING as a billiard saloon, on Front street, and the house together with an adjoining building, known as the Wehrman House, were destroyed.

The property belonged to A. WEHRMAN, but was mortgaged to GREELEY, GALE & BURNHAM of St. Louis, who were about foreclosing, and who held an insurance on it of two thousand dollars.

The total loss was about $3,500, including the two buildings and damage on other property.

THE PRINTERS OF PORTAGE CITY had a "time" on Christmas. The following from the account given by the Record, shows how well they enjoyed the feast which was given them by the citizens:

"In the morning as we awoke, a scene presented itself, which, to use an entirely original expression, "beggared all description." There were printers to the right of us, printers to the left of us, and printers all around us. There were printers under the stone, printers under the press, printers under the case, printers in the bank, printers in the bed "heads and pints," and printers laying around loose promiscuously."

THE LA CROSSE Union & Democrat comes to us enlarged to a six column sheet. The proprietors, in noticing the improvement, says:

The present business of the office rendered this enlargement indispensable, and the paper will be further enlarged as the needs of business require. We are enabled to say to our friends at this time, that the support of our paper has more than realized our anticipations; and that we proceed in our enterprise on a firm and sure basis.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE and the Wolfgang Ledger document, about fill up all our State exchanges, to the great relief of our scissors.

COMMERCE OF BOSTON—INCREASE IN 1859.—For the year 1859, the total number of foreign entries at this port was 3,124. In 1858, 2,879. Increase in 1859, 245.

PERSONAL.—GERRIT SMITH has so nearly been restored to health, that he has returned to his home at Peterboro.' He will probably go to Europe.

Correspondence between Brauch and Grow.

From the N. Y. Herald.

WASHINGTON CITY, Dec. 29, 1859.

SIR:—Will you please name a time and place, outside of the District of Columbia, at which you will receive from me a communication in writing. Very respectfully,
L. O'B. BRANCH.

Hon. GALUSHA A. GROW.

On the copy of this note, retained, is an endorsement by Mr. Winslow in the following words:

"The note, of which this is a copy, was handed to me by Mr. Brauch immediately after the colloquy between him and Mr. Grow. No opportunity occurred of delivering it, without attracting undue attention, until I met Mr. Grow at the Capitol on Friday.
WARREN WINSLOW."

During Friday evening I received from Mr. Grow, through the Hon. R. E. Fenton, of New York, a reply, of which the following is a copy:

WASHINGTON CITY, }
December 30, 1859—7 P. M. }

SIR—Your note of the 29th inst., was placed in my hands by your friend Governor Winslow, at 12 o'clock M. to-day. I know of nothing that makes it necessary for me to name a time and place outside the District of Columbia to receive from you a communication in writing. Your note was doubtless—as nothing else has occurred between us—based upon the remarks made by me in debate in the House of Representatives in reply to your speech impugning my motives and the integrity of my acts as a legislator. On that occasion I used no language in violation of parliamentary law, and not warranted by your remarks thus impugning my conduct.

If your note is to be considered of a hostile character, then I have this to reply. Regarding dueling as at variance with the precepts of the Christian religion and the sentiments of a Christian people, and it being prohibited and declared a crime by the laws enacted by the body of which we are members, I cannot recognize it as a justifiable mode of settling difficulties among men, even in cases of unwarrantable provocation; but my personal rights, and the freedom of debate guaranteed by the Constitution, I shall defend whenever they are assailed. Very respectfully yours. GALUSHA A. GROW.

To Hon. L. O'B. BRANCH.

By those who are acquainted with the penal code of this district, to which my attention is drawn by Mr. Grow in his letter, it will be readily understood that no other course is left but for me to publish this narration, and leave the whole matter to the impartial judgment of honorable men of all sections of the country.
L. O'B. BRANCH.

Washington City, Jan. 2d, 1860.

SOME interesting statements were made lately to the Real Estate Owners Association, in regard to the number of houses the Island of New York will contain, and the time necessary to cover the entire island with houses at the present ratio of increase in the population. It was stated that, placing the present population at one million, it will take just twelve years to build up the entire city, allowing ten persons to a house, or fifteen years, taking the present population at eight hundred thousand. According to this, the time is not far distant when there will have to be steam communication between the different parts of the city.

DEDICATION OF THE M. E. CHURCH OF LAMARTINE.—The Methodist Episcopal Church at this place was dedicated on Friday, the 30th ult. The Revs. J. Anderson, (Presiding Elder) Henry Requa and A. A. Head were present on the occasion. The Dedication sermon was preached by the Rev. Henry Requa, and prayer by the Rev. J. Anderson.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth, 4th.

THERE were fifteen murders in New York city last year and fifty-nine suicides.

The Result of an Arrest of a Northern Man—A Painful Case.

Correspondence of the N. Y. Tribune.

GLASTENBURY, Conn., Dec. 28.

The Rev. Mr. Alberton was brought to his home—three miles from here—last Friday, with one leg broken and his head and arms bruised, by a fall from the cars, on his way from Alabama, where he went a few weeks since, in the employ of Mr. Stebbins of Hartford, peddling books. He was arrested after the John Brown invasion, on suspicion of evil designs, and imprisoned twelve days. The suspicion was founded on a passage found in a letter of another person, in the same business, from Mr. Stebbins. The suspicious sentence was this: "Take the best men, be faithful, do your work thoroughly; my agent in this section is the Rev. Mr. Alberton, whose headquarters is at—." I don't recollect the name of the place. On this expression they founded a suspicion of treason, and sent forthwith to the place and arrested Mr. A., and the mob gathered around and cried out, "Shoot him, shoot him!" "bang him, bang him!" He was searched, tried and false charges were brought against him, and he was thrust into prison. He was so excited that he finally had turns of derangement.

His case being reported to Mr. Stebbins, he procured testimony of names in Hartford, as Gov. Seymour and others, who could be trusted, and was released and paid $60 for false imprisonment. He was put on board a steamer on the Alabama River to Montgomery, and thence by cars came home. In a fit of derangement he jumped out of the cars this side of New Haven, and lay from 6 p. m. Thursday, to 3 a. m. Friday, when he was found and accompanied to Hartford.

I saw him on Monday of this week. He is very feeble, and his prostrate, bruised and mangled, like the "man who went from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves." He is unable to talk much yet, he is so exhausted and excited. He has a family consisting of a wife and six children; is an Englishman by birth; has preached in this part of the town for five years, and has preached in this county about ten years. He owns a house in Manchester and suspended preaching on account of the inconvenience of moving about with a family of small children. He is a whole-souled, large-hearted Englishman and a Christian; a man of unblemished moral character, and in good standing. He spent last Winter in North Carolina, and preached at times on the Sabbath in his own and all other denominations. Yours, &c.,
F. SNOW.

More Illustrations of Southern Tyranny.

From the New York Independent.

TWO YOUNG LADIES DRIVEN OUT OF RICHMOND.—Two intelligent young ladies formerly well known in the choirs of churches in Boston and Hartford, went to Richmond in September last with a view of establishing a private school. They soon gained the confidence of many friends, and succeeded in starting an enterprise which gave fair prospects of speedily prospering. As soon as the recent excitement began, they were waited upon by some very respectable gentlemen, who informed them that Northern schoolmistresses, however amiable and competent, were not the proper persons to teach the children of Southern parents and guardians! The ladies were forced immediately to break up their school. Wishing, on account of their health, to remain in a Southern climate, and hearing of a vacancy in a school in another city in Virginia, they made application and presented their letters. They received a reply from a clergyman, who wrote to them as follows:

"The Board of Trustees met yesterday, and passed upon the various applications, yours among the rest. I deeply regret to say, that, although your recommendations were altogether the most favorable, your proposal was immediately rejected as soon as the fact became known that you were both from the North. The feeling is so strong, and the foolish excitement has run so high, on the subject of Northern people, that the community here seem almost blind; and if they continue in their present policy, they will lay themselves open to severe criticism, if not to censure."

Accordingly the ladies, being compelled to leave Richmond, and unable to find a place for the sole of their feet anywhere else in Virginia, and knowing the uselessness of going further South, took an early train to New York.

THE GREAT FIRE AT NEW ORLEANS.—On Christmas day a fire made sad havoc at New Orleans, brief mention of which has heretofore been made. The Crescent thus speaks of it:

Hyde & Goodrich's, the largest and most splendid jewelry establishment in the South, backed in a splendor hitherto unachieved.—The display of rare metals, precious stones, and other costly articles, wrought up in all the resplendent shapes of modern art, fairly caused the eye to ache, and brought up thoughts of Golconda and Aladdin's cave.—One window alone contained diamonds and jewels to the value of $75,000. There were single clusters worth hundreds and thousands, and one diamond set worth $10,000.—The display, being unprecedented, was a matter of town talk, and the corner was glutted with gazers all the day long.

Scarcely less splendid in its way was the dry goods display of the popular and well known house of Benthuysen, Lewis & Co., next door. Silks, laces, and other goods of the richest and rarest, challenged the admiration of the passing throng, and kept the windows blocked and the store crowded.—And to think that all this magnificence was gotten up for the Christmas holidays, and for the unexampled rush of trade just setting in, only to be ruined, destroyed, laid waste by the double scourge of fire and water on the morning of Christmas day! It was, in truth, a cruel fire.

Benthuysen, Lewis & Co. valued their stock at $120,000—all insured among the different offices in this city, and $10,000 in New York. It is judged that the saturated goods, when auctioned off for account of the underwriters, will bring about 25 per cent. of their value—making the actual loss to the insurers about $90,000.

Hyde & Goodrich valued their stock and fixtures at about $300,000; insurance $150,000, all in the city offices; and about $100,000 worth of goods saved, some of it in a damaged condition. With so much of their loss as is not covered by insurance, and counting, at its reasonable valuation, the interruption to their business, Hyde & Goodrich set down their actual damage at $160,000.

The building, belonging to R. D. Shepherd, and insured, was damaged to the extent of about $10,000. This would make the entire loss by fire about $300,000.

A MODEL APPOINTMENT.—Atty General Howe has done a handsome thing in appointing J. O. Culver, Esq., of Milwaukee, as his Assistant. Mr. Culver, aside from being a lawyer of good ability, is a gentleman of fine talent as a writer. We suppose that it will be of little avail for us to undertake, any longer, to conceal the fact that he is the author of those rare and genial sketches which have appeared from time to time in the Advocate under the nom de plume of "Long-a-Coming." They purported to be from a lady; and it is evidence enough of, to use a painter's phrase, his delicacy of touch, that a bearded man, in the rugged and unpoetical atmosphere of a law office, has so happily carried out the spirit and intent of girlish thoughts, as to have those letters accepted everywhere, save perhaps with a few home exceptions, for just what they pretended to be. They have been copied widely by the press in the Northern and Eastern States, generally with handsome compliments to the fair writer in the Green Bay Fineries.

But we began this paragraph just to endorse the correct taste of our friend Jim Howe in choosing an associate. The rest of it followed irresistibly, though we know to a positive certainty that it will bring us a "blowing up" from Mr. Culver himself. We shall be consoled by having had the fun of saying it though.—Green Bay Advocate.

THE Montreal Gazette, in giving an account of the execution of a man named Beauregard, in that city, for the murder of a farmer, says that the attendant minister requested the spectators to pray for the condemned. The vast multitude, with few exceptions, knelt down and engaged in prayer, and for a time nothing was heard but the hum of many voices praying for Beauregard's soul. The priest also exhorted the people present to take example by Beauregard's sad end, and not frequent the tavern; the tavern led to the jail, and the jail to the scaffold.

FINGER CUT OFF BY WATER.—An employee of the Water Works Company, a day or two since, in working at the adjustment of one of the fire plugs, got a finger out off instanter by a sudden rush and pressure of the water upon the valve. That is what we should call plug ugly. The sufferer had the wound dressed and went home. His successor at the job found a frozen digit lying in the plug.—Chicago Press & Tribune.

Leap Year.

Leap for joy, feminine hearts! One year out of every four confers special privilege upon you. That year is come. Vindicate your rights with blisserine courage! If your favorite young man is not bold enough to kiss you—kiss him; part the auburn moustache and salute him with the quadrennial buss! Havn't you got the right, decreed by custom, legend and ancient authority! We hope to see love prevail in 1860, which will be the case if woman prevails. We hope to hear kisses fired off on every proper occasion, and—here—to be kissed ourselves by every pretty woman who knows the way into our sanctum.

If there is any blonde, or brunette, wishes to escort us to the next ball, let her be in time.

ITEMS IN BRIEF.—There are letters detained in the Racine Post Office for ORRIN MYRICK and MORITZ SCHOEFFLER, both of this city.——We are informed that Mr. LUDWIG had at his green-house, before the fire, a century plant which would have bloomed this year.——Mr. MACGRAW, ex-State Prison Commissioner, is at the Newhall with his family. He intends removing to Michigan.——JOHN REISSE, of Barton, Wis., recently sent $122 to Milwaukee, and the West Bend Democrat says it never reached its destination.——The 7:10 A. M. train on the Mil. & Chicago R. R. is temporarily withdrawn.——Watertown is to have a Musical Society.——Will some one explain to us why it is that the colder the weather the greater the number of fires?——The Free Democrat chronicles the death of another mad dog.

SLEIGH-RIDING.—We have enjoyed three weeks of capital sleighing, with weather to match; and the prospect is fair for a continuance of the same. Messrs. BUTLER & POST, at their Livery Stable, foot of Mason street, have been kept busy, night and day, furnishing teams for all who wished to enjoy the sport. Their horses, sleighs and drivers are all of the best pattern, and those who wish to improve the present opportunity, will do well to give them a call.

AFLOAT AGAIN.—The tug McQueen at Chicago, which sunk in her laudable endeavors to break up the ice, to make passage for the steamship Milwaukee, is afloat again. Wisconsin of last night.

Not posted thoroughly. The McQueen was not laudably endeavoring to force a passage for the Milwaukee. But was behind the steamship as hash een repeatedly stated in the papers.

BALL OF THE MILWAUKEE LIGHT GUARD.—The annual ball of the Milwaukee Light Guard comes off, next Tuesday evening, at the Newhall House. It will be the finest affair of the season. LAKE SHORE R. R.—The 7:10 a. m. passenger train on the Milwaukee & Chicago R. R. is temporarily withdrawn, but a mixed train will leave at 8 o'clock with passenger cars attached, to accommodate local business.

THE LOCALE of the Wisconsin makes the amende honorable, and states that the insertion of Mr. CROUNSE'S name as reporter, was a typographical error. All right again, CLODIUS.

LATEST NEWS!

BY LAST NIGHT'S REPORT

Congressional Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—9 P. M.

HOUSE.—Mr. Morris, of Illinois, offered a resolution, which was read for information, that the superintendent of public buildings be directed to replace the desks and chairs as they were in the hall previous to their removal; and to enable him to do so, he is directed to prepare the old hall for temporary occupation. He said he would not call up the resolution this morning.

Mr. Bingham and others objected.

Mr. Montgomery of Pennsylvania; said Mr. Colfax, of Indiana, yesterday attacked his former proposition for temporary organization, on the ground of violation of the Constitution. He had offered it in good faith. We are in debt to the man contractors for four millions of dollars; it is an honest debt, honestly contracted for service honestly performed: it is not an American, Democratic, or Republican debt, but a national debt. Adopt his proposition, and they could pass the Post Office Appropriation Bill, and redeem the credit of the nation.

Mr. Nelson said if the gentleman was anxious to pay the debt, he could ask him to adopt the plurality rule now.

Mr. Montgomery replied if he was willing to accept it, others were not willing to do so.

If three-fourths were willing to accept and the other fourth protest against it, an organization cannot be effected—not even it ten protested. His position was fair, honest, and just. He insisted it was constitutional, and he referred to our past legislative history to show the precedent in such cases.

Mr. Stevens asked whether his colleague could show that before an organization a Speaker pro tem. had been elected.

Mr. Montgomery replied that in 1839 and 1840 Mr. Adams had been elected Chairman.

Mr. Stevens—Was Mr. Adams Speaker.

Mr. Montgomery considered him such. Mr. Corwin would be, to-day, temporary Speaker if the House would adopt his resolution.

Mr. Morris, of Pa., asked whether there was any legislation while Mr. Adams was chairman.

Mr. Montgomery had not examined the records to see, but if there was no legislation, that did not prove there could not have been. He renewed his resolution.

Mr. Stevens raised the point that the resolution was not in order; that previous to entering on business, the action of Congress required that an oath shall be administered to the Speaker, and by him to the clerk and all the members, and that no resolution of this body can repeal the act. The proposition now offered, is, therefore, an absurdity. The cases referred to by Mr. Montgomery were not applicable to his proposition.

Here the matter rested.

Mr. Reagan renewed his remarks from yesterday, insisting that the Republicans disregarded the obligations of the Constitution, and invaded not only the rights of the people but the reserved rights of the States. Their candidate for Speaker had not said that the doctrines of the Helper's book are treasonable. The fact that there are men who will not respect constitutional obligations, is one of the startling features of the times, and has raised intense feeling in the Southern States. All patriotic men should come together, rising above their ordinary prejudices on transient questions and meet the common enemy, whose success would increase the danger of the perpetuity of the Confederacy.

Mr. Wells remarked that he was much pleased with the remarks of Mr. McRae, who said he was a fair man and believed he liked to see fair play in this pugilistic ring, for it could not be called by a much better name. There was nothing like fair play.—He was perfectly satisfied that had the policy which seems to have been adopted by the Republicans been followed by the other side from the commencement of this contest, he was satisfied that they would have been an organized body. He wanted to know if it was fair play for the Republicans to keep sealed lips, while the gentleman on the other side stood like opportunity to discuss the principles of disunion and to enunciate the doctrines which disturb the peace and prosperity of the common country. He did not rise to make a speech, but simply to ask the question, how was the House to be organized? Was any party here able to do so. Was any party in a majority It was well known that no such party exists. In one of two ways only could an organization be effected. It was well known that the Republicans had their entire vote and that the South Americans and Democrats cannot unite on any man. They were as radically opposed to one another as they are jointly to the Republicans.

The House can be organized only by the voluntary withdrawal of gentlemen acting with the Americans or Democrats, or by the adoption of the plurality rule. It was said that some of the gentlemen would oppose it, but he said let the gentlemen not talk any more on the general principles of the American, Republican or Democratic parties, but act like men and vote till they come to some conclusion. He was here to work and vote, and even when the turkey was hot he did not mean to go to dinner if he could help it. He was willing to stay here till to-morrow's cock crowed to elect a Speaker.

There was a call of the House preliminary to a vote for Speaker. John Cochrane said there was still one gent on the Democratic side absent, owing to sickness, who had not been paired off. He had been sent for. He thought gents on the other side would see how proper it was to make a pair for that gent. [Cries from the Republican side, no, no.] Mr. Cochrane said the action of the Republican side then forced him to make a dilatory motion, and that was to adjourn.—The yeas and nays were demanded by the Democratic side and ordered. The motion was disagreed to, 76 against 135. Mr. Brakesdale nominated Mr. Vallandingham. The House proceeded to vote. Mr. Potter, when his name was called, said as Mr Vallandingham was somehow mixed up with the John Brown affair, he could not vote for him, but for John Sherman.

Mr. Vallandingham at a subsequent period retorted by saying he should very much like to vote for Mr. Potter, but as the latter was a contradiction of the remark of Shakespeare's, "that when the brains are out the man is dead," he should vote for Mr. Houston. (Cries of good on the Democratic side. Laughter.)

The ballot resulted as follows: Whole number of votes 212; necessary to a choice 107; Sherman 104, Vallandingham 69; Gilmer 7; H. F. Clark 4; scattering 18.

The House again voted, Mr. Davis, of Miss., nominating Mr. Bocock. The ballot resulted as follows: Whole number of votes

Senator Doolittle.

The News cherishes an intense grudge against Senator DOOLITTLE, and omits no opportunity to feed it. On Monday last Senator DOOLITTLE made a very telling speech on the Slavery question; turning the arguments of its chief advocates against themselves, citing the highest Southern and Democratic authorities against the position now maintained by the pro-Slavery men; an in various other ways showing up the beauties of the "peculiar institution" and the glaring inconsistencies of its champions. Senator DOOLITTLE was repeatedly interrupted, in the course of his remarks, by different Southern Senators, who endeavored in vain to parry his arguments, or dispute his facts. He met and foiled, in turn, each of his assailants, bearing himself manfully throughout the discussion and doing credit to himself and the State that he represents.

The News, however, whose sympathies are all Pro-Slavery, represents that Senator DOOLITTLE made a "disgraceful" exhibition of himself in this debate, and that "every statement he made was proved false to his face." This is a gross and inexcusable fabrication. Mr. DOOLITTLE successfully maintained all his points, as the sketch of the debate shows. The News publishes a garbled account of the debate, to sustain its statements. Thus, Mr. DOOLITTLE asserted, and truly asserted, that every Administration from that of WASHINGTON to the present had recognized and exercised the power of Congress over the Territories. He also asserted that Mr. CALHOUN, as a member of Mr. MONROE'S Cabinet, had given an opinion recognizing such power. Mr. CHESNUT, of South Carolina, here interfered, and said that Mr. CALHOUN, on the floor of the Senate, had denied expressing such an opinion. The News points to the averment of Mr. CHESNUT, as convicting Mr. DOOLITTLE of "falsehood," but carefully suppresses Mr. DOOLITTLE'S conclusive rejoinder. Mr. D., in proof of the assertion, quoted the diary of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, written at the time, and then added that Mr. CALHOUN'S disclaimer had not been made until twenty-five years afterwards.

Of course, the authority of the Diary outweighs that of the disclaimer and sustains Senator DOOLITTLE'S statement. Had Senator D., like Judge LABRABEE, made a speech in defense of Slavery and denunciatory of the North, no doubt the News would have been vocal with his praise. But if the Senator has incurred the censures of this pro-Slavery organ, by his vindication of the Republican Party and his successful "raid" upon the Sham Democracy, he has merited and will receive the thanks and applause of the people of Wisconsin.

The State Treasury.

The quarterly report of the Secretary of State, to the Governor, showing the financial condition of the State on the 31st of December last, appears in the Madison Patriot of the 2d instant. From it we learn that the amount of money in the Treasury, on the 31st ult., was as follows:

Wisconsin Currency	$127,684 00
Madison City Bonds	319 16
Gold and Silver Coin	27,979 94
Total	$155,771 10

The amount is thus divided among the several funds of the State:

General Fund	$16,910 47
School Fund	52,210 43
School Income	58,284 08
University Fund	5,091 22
County Income	1,046 40
Swamp Land Fund	20,259 79

These, with three or four smaller items, make up the aggregate.

The Treasury seems to be in a sound condition, and we are assured by our State officers, that with a short Legislative session and moderate appropriations, the State tax for next year need not exceed $150,000. This is what the Republicans promised, during last Fall's canvass, and what we hope to see them perform.

BEGINS TO SEE IT.—The Chicago Times, DOUGLAS' organ, makes a strong protest against President BUCHANAN'S official exposition of the Democratic creed in reference to slavery in the Territories, and an urgent appeal to the South not to insist upon the recognition of that creed at Charleston. The Times says:

> What is the South thinking of? It is positively certain that, if they will but allow the Charleston Convention to re-adopt the Cincinnati platform, the candidate of the convention will be elected; but if not—if they insist on a platform adapted to the slavery-everywhere views of the President, we shall be as a party wiped out.

Nothing more likely; and as the South, with the administration to help them, will insist upon endorsing "the slavery-everywhere views of the President," the result is not difficult to foretell.

TOBACCO.—The Dean of Carlisle, in a recent lecture on tobacco, at Carlisle, England, stated that in 1856 thirty-three millions of pounds of tobacco were consumed in England, at an expense of eight millions of dollars. In France, more is consumed in proportion to the population. The Emperor clears one hundred millions of francs annually by the government monopoly. In the city of Hamburg, forty thousand cigars are consumed daily, although the population is not much over a hundred and fifty thousand. In Denmark the annual consumption reaches the enormous average of seventy ounces per he ad ot the whole population. In Belgium it is even more; and in America even more yet. It is calculated that the entire world of smokers, snuffers, and chewers consume two millions of tons of tobacco annually, or four hundred and eighty millions of pounds, occupying in its growth five and a half millions of acres; and that about one-fourth of the human race are in the habit of using it.

SHORT-SIGHTED POLICY.—The Legislature of South Carolinia has appropriated $200,000 for the purchase of knapsacks, muskets, &c., to play soldier with, and have refused an appropriation of half a dozen thousand dollars to continue the geological surveys commenced some years ago, and now nearly completed. The South Carolinian says this most valuable work is stopped just at a time when patriotism and interest both demanded a continuance.

HOG TRADE AT ST. LOUIS.—The packing season at St. Louis is about over, and the number of hogs packed at that point up to date is about 70,000.

Governor Seward at Auburn.

A large delegation from Rochester paid a visit to Auburn, on Saturday last, to deliver to Governor SEWARD the following letter, signed by a thousand or more of the citizens of the former place:

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec., 1859.

HON. WM. H. SEWARD—Dear Sir:—The undersigned, citizens of Rochester, improve the occasion of your recent return to your native country, after a brief visit to the Old World, to extend to you their expressions of personal regard, and to welcome you not only to your home and country, but especially to the resumption of those public duties as a Senator, which have already reflected such honor upon yourself, and the great commonwealth which you so faithfully represent.

You return to the Senate at an interesting, may we not say, at a critical junction in our National affairs. For the first time in our National History is heard, day after day, the threat of Disunion in our Congressional Halls, from representatives of many of our sister States. We congratulate you, Sir, we congratulate our common country, that none of these disloyal threats proceed from the members of that political party whose principles and policy you have often so ably illustrated and enforced; and when you announced in our immediate presence that an "Irrepressible Conflict" was going on between Freedom and Slavery, we did not dream that you were giving utterance to a novel, disputed or revolutionary idea, but simply that you made the statement of a self-evident truism, a fact, everywhere recognized where moral beings make moral distinctions.

When you resume your seat in the Senate, we know that you will "not bate one jot" of those constitutional principles that have ever been your beacon and guide in public life, the principles of Franklin, Washington, Jefferson, Madison, and the other honored founders of the Republic; the Senate and the nation have heard your utterances again and again; they are upon record; the undersigned, who now address you, approve and reaffirm them, and in this new phase of public opinion, or rather public expression of THE THREATS of Disunion, we doubt not that your voice and influence within the Senate will be in entire harmony with that great existing party which never, through one of its public men, lisped Disunion but to deprecate and abjure the thought. We are confident, that with an emphasis and courage equal to the occasion, you will maintain the equal rights of all the States—protect the freedom of the Territories from the mildew and blight of Slavery, and vindicate the constitutional privilege of the People, to honor whom they will, even to the selection and election of the President of their choice; and finally, that your ruling maxim and motto will be, as it is ours "LIBERTY AND UNION, NOW AND FOREVER, ONE AND INSEPARABLE."

To this letter and the address of Mr. HUSON, who read it, Senator SEWARD made the following reply:

I give you my hearty thanks, Mr. Chairman, and gentlemen of the Committee, and I beg you to convey my thanks to those you represent, for this flattering congratulation. It is a gratifying circumstance to me to find that absence, and at my time of life a long absence, has not at all abated the cordiality, kindness and respect of the people among whom I live, and those whom I represent as a Senator of the United States. I saw much of public affairs and of public men, throughout Europe. It has been my fortune to find not a door of hut or hovel, of Parliament or Court, closed against me. I discovered in this circumstance a great change in the temper and sentiment of nations and governments of Europe since the period of my former visit to that country, twenty-five years ago. I found, everywhere, that to be known and understood as an American, without voucher, letter, credentials, or commission, simply to be known as a Legislator of the United States, secured me audience, consultation, conference, discussion and debate, candid and frank upon all questions of peace, war, progress and its reverse, among those who maintain present systems, as well as the supporters of revolutionary movements in Europe.

I shall, with as much despatch as I can—and it will require two or three days—arrange my business, and then go on to Washington, where you will hear of me. Whatever questions may arise there, they will be met in the spirit which my duty to my constituents and to our whole country shall seem to me to demand.

The Rochester Democrat, from which we copy the above, gives the following account of Senator SEWARD'S welcome home:

The Auburn papers of Saturday contain detailed and very interesting accounts of the enthusiastic reception which was given to their illustrious townsman by the people of Auburn. Gov. Seward's speech was an exceedingly happy response to a most flattering greeting. Some of the emblematic devices by which the people testified their regard for Gov. Seward were not yet removed when the Rochester delegation reached Auburn.

Over the gateway leading to his residence was erected an arch trimmed with evergreens, and inscribed with the following passage of Scripture:

> "And behold I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whither thou goest, and will bring thee again into this land." THE CLERGY.

All the clergymen assembled to greet Gov. Seward.

Upon reaching his door, he turned to the immense concourse of people and attempted to address them, but was too much affected by the demonstration to do so. He bowed, invoked the blessing of Heaven upon them all, and entered his mansion.

Thus ended one of the largest and most imposing demonstrations which the people of Auburn ever made for any MAN or CAUSE.

A Genuine Union Speech.

The following passage from a genuine Union speech delivered recently at New Haven, Connecticut, by THOMAS YEATMAN, is very much to the purpose. Were all "Union saving" literature like this and the letter of Mr. FILLMORE, the late Union demonstrations would not have fallen into universal contempt:

"Look at the facts as they exist. The messages of Southern Governors are filled with recommendations to prepare for disunion.—Legislative resolves are gravely presented, declaring the right of secession, and the duty of the South to establish her military upon a more perfect basis. And meetings are held in city, town and village; leagues of non-intercourse are formed against the North, and Northern merchants driven from the soil.

All this is madness and folly, but I ask does it not manifest a feeling utterly subversive of all true union, which at last can only exist upon the affections of a united people. I address no appeal to the North to preserve the Union—it would be an indignity and an insult to do so—for here no hand is raised against it. For every lunatic who would perform the deed, a thousand watchmen are standing at the gates—all of whose treasures are enshrined in that temple. A thousand anxious eyes are looking down from every embrasure, and above and around are moving the spirits of departed patriots, touching with patriotic sympathy millions of loyal hearts. Here we stand by the Union to the last, stand by it as we would by our own mother, and die a thousand deaths rather than permit her seamless garment of unity to be rent in twain, or her loved form exposed to the derision of the world. No, rather go to my brother in the South, united as I am in birth, in interest, in affection, and plead with him to pause and come and let us reason together.

"My brother, you complain that union is fatal to the institution of slavery. I deny it, and could prove it is the only security. But, I ask you, will it be strengthened by dissolution? You complain that your slaves are decoyed and attempts are made to excite them to servile insurrection. I condemn the one and abhor the other. But I ask you, if with all the securities of the Constitution, and a powerful government ever ready to enforce them, these offences are committed, what are you to expect when every barrier is broken down, when you are alienated in amnity and distrust, when our border States are convulsed in all the horrors of fratricidal war?"

SHIPMENTS FROM KENOSHA IN 1859.—The following is a statement of produce shipped from Kenosha during the past year:

Wheat,	bushels	533,220
Oats,	"	187,619
Barley,	"	1,710
Flour,	barrels	22,949
Pork,	"	6,142

HOGS SLAUGHTERED AT LOUISVILLE.—The hog season at Louisville and the Falls is closed. The number of hogs packed this season is 252,416, against 287,059 last year. There is also said to be a great deficiency in weight.

"WILL LEMON EXPLODE."—A novel feature of lemon science was developed on Edina Place on Monday night, when the lady of the house had occasion to use some essence of lemon, and in pouring it out, it took fire from a lamp and exploded, throwing the contents into the face of another person and burning him badly.—Chicago Press & Trib.

"HOW FORTUNATE I am in meeting a rain-beaux in this storm," said a young lady who was caught in a shower the other day to her "beaux of promise," who "happened" along with an umbrella. "And I," said he, gallantly, "am as much rejoiced as the poor Laplander, when he has caught a rein deer."

The Irrepressible Conflict.

From the Philadelphia North American.

During the discussion in the House of Representatives, on Thursday, when Mr. Pryor of Virginia, was endeavoring to fasten upon the Opposition side the responsibility of an odious doctrine, by which he charged that a hostile antagonism between the North and South was incited, Mr. McKnight, the able and efficient member from the Pittsburg district, in this State, interposed with a brief and pertinent exposition, which was completely overwhelming in its effect. We commend to the attention of our readers the following description of that scene as it occurred:

Mr. McKnight, of Penn., asked Mr. Pryor if he would permit him to interrupt him just here, to make an inquiry.

Mr. Pryor shortly afterwards said, "Now I will hear the inquiry of the gentleman from Pennsylvania."

Mr. McKnight—I understood the gentleman from Virginia to say that Wm. H. Seward was the author and originator of the doctrine of the "irrepressible conflict" between the Northern and Southern sections of this confederacy. Now I ask the gentleman from Virginia if he ever saw a manifesto prepared by John C. Calhoun, signed by him and some forty other members of Congress from the South, and issued to the country in 1849, from which I read the following, out of Benton's "Thirty Years View," 2d volume:

"We, whose names are hereto annexed, address you in discharge of what we believe to be a solemn duty, on the most important subject ever presented to your consideration. We allude to the conflict between the two great sections of the Union, growing out of a difference of feeling and opinion in reference to the relations existing between the two races, European and African, which inhabit the southern section, and the acts of aggression and encroachment to which it has led. The conflict commenced not long after the acknowledgment of our independence, and has gradually increased until it has arrayed the great body of the north against the south. In the progress of this conflict, aggression has followed aggression, and encroachment encroachment, until they have reached a point when a regard for peace and safety will not permit us to remain longer silent," &c.

This manifesto was signed by Messrs. Atkinson, of Missouri; Hunter and Mason, of Virginia; Calhoun and Butler, of South Carolina; Davis, of Louisiana; Foote and Jefferson Davis, of Mississippi; Fitzpatrick, of Alabama; Borland and Sebastian, of Arkansas; Westcott and Yulee, of Florida; Atkinson, Bayley, Bedinger, Bocock, Beale, W. G. Brown, Meade, and Thompson, of Virginia; Daniel and Venable, of North Carolina; Burt, Holmes, Rhett, Simpson and Woodward, of South Carolina; Wallace, Iverson, Lumpkin, of Georgia; Bowden, Gale, Harris, of Alabama; Featherston, J. Thompson, of Mississippi; LaSere, Morse, of Louisiana; R. W. Johnson, of Arkansas, and Stanton, of Kentucky.

On reading these names, Mr. McKnight asked Mr. Pryor if the Mr Bocock among the signers was the same gentleman, now a member of the House, and sustained by the other side as a candidate for Speaker.

Mr. Pryor replied, "he believed he was."

Mr. McKnight—Then how can gentlemen who censure and condemn Mr. Sherman as approving the "irrepressible conflict" doctrine, support Mr. Bocock, who approved and endorsed a manifesto originating the very same doctrine?

Here the calls and cries of Southern gentlemen became so uproarious that Mr. McKnight's voice was lost, and he had to resume his seat, and await an answer at their leisure.

We understand that Mr. McKnight, if not cried down, designed to show by Mr. Benton that, in pursuance of the manifesto of Messrs. Calhoun, Bocock, &c., the National Convention met, which recommended that a Southern Congress should be held to dissolve the Union, and inaugurate a Southern Confederacy; and to quote Mr. Benton as follows, on this Southern manifesto, briefly:

"Now, this certain emancipation of Slaves in the States was a pure and simple invention of Mr. Calhoun, not only without evidence, but against evidence, contradicted by every species of human action, negative and positive, before and since. Yet this incendiary cry of abolishing Slavery in the States has become the staple of all subsequent agitators. Every little agitator now jumps upon it—jumps into a State the moment a free territory is mentioned—and repeats all the alarming stuff invented by Mr. Calhoun, and as much more as his own invention can add to it. In the meantime, events daily affix the brand of falsehood on these incendiary inventions," etc.

Twelve Families Driven out of Kentucky for Anti-Slavery Opinions.

From the Cincinnati Gazette, Dec. 31st.

Twelve families, embracing in all thirty-nine persons, arrived in this city at eight o'clock last evening, from Berea, Madison Co., Kentucky, whence they were forced to move on account of entertaining anti-slavery views and opinions. The entire party took rooms at the Dennison House, the heads of the families registering their names as follows: T. A. R. Rogers, John Smith, John G. Harrison, John Davis, John F. Boughton, Swinglehurst Life, T. E. E. Hayes, G. W. Parker, W. F. Tony, C. W. Griffin, and T. D. Reed.

Most of the number are natives of the State, and several were born and reared in the county which they were required by the authorities to leave. The greater part are young men, but there are others far past three score years and ten; these added to children in arms and defenceless women comprise the list that have for the past two weeks created such dread to that part of Kentucky geographically described as Madison county. In connection with the above list, should appear the name of the Rev. John G. Fee, a native of Kentucky, and whose father is and has been a large slaveholder.

The reverend gentleman founded several anti-slavery institutions in Madison county, which induced the slaveholding citizens, about two weeks ago, to notify Mr. Fee that he must leave the State. He did so, and is at present with his companions in this city. The full particulars of the whole matter will be found appended. The party, with whom our reporter had a lengthy conversation, have no definite object in view, bereft of of their homes and fire-sides, they are driven ruthlessly into a strange State among a strange people, to seek new homes and new fire-sides, and all for the reason of a difference of opinion and its honest expression.

THE FEELING IN THE HOUSE—BULLYING OF THE PRO-SLAVERY MEMBERS.—The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia North American, writing under date of December 31st, says:

While it is true that the general temper of the House is much subdued since the meeting of Congress, every observer must have been impressed with the insulting, arrogant and menacing tone of much of the discussion. A whole party has been, day after day, stigmatized as "traitors," "fanatics," and "outlaws," while other odious charges and calumnies have been flung in their faces, as if with a design to provoke collision. These things have been endured patiently, until a class of men, presuming upon this forbearance, have grossly outraged all the proprieties of the body, and made personal attacks with a purpose which admits of no misapprehension. All these taunts, indignities and insolent reproaches have been, to a great extent, gratuitous and volunteered for effect. They have become hard to bear, and gentlemen may discover, some day, when they least expect it, that this systematic mode of insult will be sternly rebuked. One such example would purify the House of a most noxious and disgusting atmosphere. Even those who are not directly implicated feel this harshness constantly grating upon their sensibilities, with an impulse to administer the punishment which it so richly deserves. There is a time when forbearance ceases to be a virtue.

THE RAINY SEASON has "set in" with severity at San Francisco. At last accounts the cellars of the houses in the city were overflowed. A letter writer says—"looking in one basement I noticed a hundred or two casks of furniture floating around on a voyage of discovery, and a gentleman Irishman, who roamed there, bound on a yachting excursion on a bureau, very complacently smoking his pipe, waiting for the water to fall, so that he might get out a clean shirt for Sunday."

The Great Secret at Last Discovered!!

JUNIUS JUDSON,

PATENTEE AND MANUFACTURER OF JUDSON'S PATENT

GOVERNOR VALVES,

FOR REGULATING THE

MOTION OF STEAM ENGINES,

WARRANTED THE MOST PERFECT Governor of Steam Power in the world, and like all really great inventions, is simple. Manufactured by Judson & Snow, at Rochester, N. Y., Selye Buildings, near R. R. Depot.

☞ Shop Rights for sale.

CAUTION TO INFRINGERS.

Patent issued in the United States, Nov. 5th, 1859. Reissued, Jan. 4th, 1859. Second Patent, March 4th, 1851. Patented also in Great Britain and Upper Canadas, June 4th, 1851.

This improvement consists in making regulating valves to open with a gradually increasing ratio of opening, by increasing the width of the opening made in the valve—or by accelerating the opening motion of the ordinary valves in use—or by combining increased width of opening, with accelerated valve motion. By patent Valves and Governor, the increased pressure, to give the resistance to the piston's motion, (or to-ward of the engine), the power to open the valves just the exact amount of aperture necessary to counteract that resistance; and from the aperture, by the addition of equal amounts of quickness, notwithstanding that the action of the governor is continually decreasing in its effects.

Therefore reverse motion of valves combined with governors, is heretofore used. And as this effect can be produced by many different mechanical devices, (temporarily and permanently indestructible with my improvements), by which infringers have imposed upon the public, I therefore caution all persons against purchasing or using counterfeits, or pretended improvements in valves or governors, as I am the application and have not been involved in their arrangements—and thereby prevent fraud upon the purchaser and inventor. Both of which, I am exceedingly much annoyed by their piratical depredations.

MANUFAC

Special Notices.

Dyspepsia! Dyspepsia! Dyspepsia!!!
What is it? How Cured?

DYSPEPSIA IS OUR NATIONAL DISease—weak stomach, feeble digestion, distress after eating, costive habits, bilious condition. How many suffer with it and its attendant symptoms of low spirits, bad taste, coated tongue, obstructed head, and attacks of the headache! Yet how few know how to cure it! Generally, because the bowels are considered, resort is had to cathartics, or laxatives. But such a condition was never cured by cathartics, whose only office is to weaken the digestive and impair the integrity of the entire assimilative system.

But HUMPHREYS' HOMEOPATHIC DYSPEPSIA PILLS—a simple medicated sugar pill—have cured hundreds of the worst and most obstinate cases.—This is done simply by improving the tone and restoring the integrity of the digestive organs, from which result good appetite, regular habits, a clear head, and buoyant spirits. Such a medicine is a new, and only requires to be known to be appreciated.

Price 75 cents per box, with directions. Six boxes $1.

N. B.—A full set of HUMPHREYS' HOMEOPATHIC SPECIFICS, with Book of Directions, and twenty remedies, in large vials, and morocco case, $5; do, in plain case, $3. Family case of fifteen boxes and book, $2.

These remedies, by the single box or case, are sent by mail or express, free of charge, to any address, on receipt of the price. Address,

MOTHERS! MOTHERS!

DON'T FAIL TO PROCURE MRS. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. It has no equal on earth. It greatly facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing inflammation—will allay all pain, and is sure to regulate the bowels. Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves, and relief and health to your infants. Perfectly safe in all cases.

This valuable preparation is the prescription of one of the most experienced and skillful Female Physicians in New England, and has been used with never failing success in millions of cases.

We believe it is the best and surest remedy in the world, in all cases of Dysentery and Diarrhœa in children, whether it arises from teething or any other cause.

If life and health can be estimated by dollars and cents, it is worth its weight in gold.

Millions of bottles are sold every year in the United States. It is an old and well tried remedy.

THE WIFE CURER.

BY E. P. SHILLABER.

[CONCLUDED.]

"So you've come, Mr. Hypocrite, have you?" was the first salutation.

"Certainly, my dear, I have come," I replied, "though I can scarcely see reason for the application of the name to me."

"You cannot! you who have just left that vile creature, on whose account and in whose company you have all day been absent from your home! You cannot!"

"I have been away all day on business," said I, as calm as Socrates. "I was returning home and encountered Miss Brennon. We walked together a little way, and then I left for my pleasant home, and certainly I did not expect such a reception."

"You did not," said she sneeringly, "but you are found out, sir. You stood upon the bridge with your arm around the strumpet's waist and kissed her!"

I felt aroused at this. I can bear any attack upon myself, but this reflection upon Miss Brennon was too much for me, who knew her pure character and exalted worth.

"It is a falsehood!" I shouted, "and your informant is a malicious and malignant falsifier!"

The relative gathered herself up to go, but before she went I gave her such a lesson on lying and tale-bearing that she has not forgotten yet. She has never crossed my door since. As soon as she was gone I turned to my wife, and said:

"As for you, madam, if you cannot make a better use of your tongue, you had better never speak again."

I was heated, in a passion, and scarcely knew what I said, but the unkind words entered into her soul. I left the house and did not return for a long time. I found her calmly and undisturbedly sitting where I had left her, but she spoke not. She arose and performed such duties as were required of her, but she did not speak. In vain I addressed her; she made no reply. I grew alarmed. I begged her to speak to me, but not one word would she deign me. It has continued thus ever since. Not one word has she ever uttered to me or any one. My home is as dismal as a tomb, or I would have invited you there.

He ceased his story, and I told him how much interested I had been in it. "But," said I, "have you tried no remedy to cure this disease, for disease, it must be?" He told me he had not. "Then," said I, "take me home with you, and if I don't cure her, strike the spurs from my heel as an unworthy knight."

I went home with the poor fellow, and found things pretty much as he had represented. I was introduced to the mistress of the mansion, who received me with a profound bow.

"A delightful home madame, this of yours," said I glancing admiringly out of the window. I looked towards her as though expecting a reply. She merely nodded her head.

"Are there many such in this vicinity among the hills?" I persisted, looking her in the face.

She colored as though she was confused. I found subsequently that I was the first stranger that he had dared to take home for several years. I saw by her organism that she was not naturally a bad woman, and divined at once that she had vowed perpetual silence at the unkind words of her husband, and that it only needed but a single word to break the spell that rested upon her.

I continued my engineering, making all manner of domestic inquiries regarding the children, of whom she appeared very fond, but could not elicit a word from here. I next alluded to her husband and our old acquaintance, and in the course of our remarks made some reflections in a playful way upon the slight blemish in one of his eyes—the only fault in his really handsome face. I saw a feeling like chagrin flit across her brow, and a moment after, when I praised him, a pleasant expression effaced the cloud.

"Aha!" said I to myself; "there are pride and affection at any rate; these springs have not dried up, and I think that language may yet be unsealed."

A day passed, but nothing transpired save manœuvers. I have never tried so hard to make myself attractive as on this occasion, and felt that I had succeeded when on the second morning she greeted me with a smile, and extended her hand to me as I came from my chamber. I chatted and rattled on about the town and its splendors, and told of new improvements, changing fashions, crinoline and lovely bonnets; all of which she listened to with evident interest. Still she wouldn't speak, confound it! I trembled for my spurs. Something must be done.

"Mrs. Somers," said I very suddenly, "will you allow me to look at the palm of your hand?"

She extended her hand very readily, and I gazed upon it as though I were a wizard engaged in some trick of necromancy, involving the fate of the household. Looking in her face, I relinquished her hand and sighed deeply. She looked surprised, and seemed as if expecting me to say something.

"You may well be surprised at my conduct," I said, "but your surprise would be overwhelming could I dare to tell you the motive of it. I cannot do this without compromising others. I may say, however, that in your hand I discern a power that may be employed for immense good. There are lines in it that meet and diverge, and come near together again without meeting. There is a mystery!" I looked at the hand again, rubbed my forehead, as though I were much perplexed, and went out abruptly. I saw her face depicted in the glass as I went out, and it bore the expression of great wonder.

"How far is it to the top of Rattlesnake Hill, Somers?" I asked at dinner time, as we sat at table.

"About fifteen miles; why?" he replied and asked.

"Because I am going there to night. I must be there at precisely midnight. I am going to gather a charm from the old Rattler's cave, through which I hope to obtain a treasure that will compensate for all trouble and danger."

"You cannot go," said he anxiously; "the way is one of peril. It is full of ravines and pitfalls, and the serpents are very numerous."

I saw that his wife shared in his uneasiness, and her looks said "don't go!" plainer than words could speak.

"So much the better for my purpose," said I; "were it not attended with danger, that which I seek would be valueless. I shall go; and more than this, I shall walk."

Somers and his wife exchanged looks, which I interpreted to mean, "Well, isn't he a queer one?" and after a few moments at table I left the house, telling Somers that I should be back by morning. I accordingly struck out for Rattlesnake Hill, accompanied by his uttered blessing and his wife's inarticulate benison; but when I reached the first brook, I made my cane into a jointed fishing rod, and indulged till sundown in the finest sport. The trout never bit with more avidity; and having caught a goodly string, I carried them to a farm-house not far away, and had them cooked for my supper. Late in the evening I returned to my friend Somers, and enjoyed a fine night's rest upon the haymow. At daylight I aroused the family by knocking at the door, but I greeted him with a simple shake of the hand, gazing abstractedly at Mrs. Somers. She looked troubled.

"Somers," said I, "please leave me a moment with your wife. It is a matter that you may sometime know, but not at present. Have you not heard of my wonderful development as a seer?"

He said he had not, but, without explaining, I pushed him out and closed the door. I knew that he would listen, however.

"Mrs. Somers," said I, "my mysterious movements are fast growing to a climax. I last night plucked a dragon's tongue from the mouth of the rattlesnake's den; I laughed with the midnight echoes, and stood face to face with the darkness, in order to gain what I sought. Your hand, please, thank you. The lines are brought nearer together, and it needs but one word of yours in response to an incantation that I shall utter, to make mystic the charm complete. You must say Yes, or all is nought."

I looked wildly as I spoke, and I saw that she was, as it were, spell-bound.

"And this is my incantation," I continued; "you swear that you hate Tim Somers"—

"No!" she almost shrieked.

Poor Tim had been listening. Fearing harm to his wife from my supposo lunacy, and hearing the question I had put and the response, he rushed in, frantic with joy; clasped her in his arms, kissed her over and over again, and jumped about the room with the wildness of a mad man. She did not seem to comprehend what she had done for an instant, but when she remembered that she had spoken, and divined the meaning of my cabalistic efforts, she came near fainting with her emotion.

"Thank God! the spell is broken!" she said; "the hideous spell that has bound me to silence and sorrow so long."

"The mystical word having been spoken," said I, "that brought the diverging lines together, I am free to tell what I sought at midnight, on Rattlesnake Hill."

"What was it?" they both asked in a breath.

"A woman's tongue," I replied, "and since I have found it, never allow any trifling cause to silence it again."

My theory was correct in regard to her not speaking. She had vowed perpetual silence, and had kept it until brought to utter one word by stratagem, which unsealed her tongue again. The children were delighted, and ran all around the neighborhood telling every body that their mother could talk, and everybody rushed in to ascertain what it meant. For a while it seemed as if anarchy and confusion had become installed on Tim Somer's hearth-stone, to make up the silence that has so long brooded there; but I bore it all good humoredly. I left them a week afterwards, the happiest couple you ever saw, and my mysterious midnight excursion to Rattlesnake Hill was frequently alluded to.

"Did you really go there?" Mrs. Somers asked, before I came away.

"No!" said I, imitating her emphatic accent of the same monosyllable in reply to her incantation, and we had a grand laugh about it; Tim Somers swearing that my seership was the best ever known, and my magic had wrought a happier effect than that of all the fairies he had ever seen exhibited at the museum.

"Good-bye," said Burner, as he finished his story, and he left me well satisfied with the manner in which he had spent his vacation.—Boston Sat. Eve. Gazette.

MILWAUKEE DAILY SENTINEL, FRIDAY MORNING, JANUARY 6, 1860.

THE SENTINEL.

COMMERCIAL.

TUESDAY EVENING, January 5th, 1860.

Commercial.

Receipts by Railroad for the 24 hours ending noon to-day include:

Flour, bbls	765	Hogs, No	933
Wheat, bus	10,412	Hides, lbs	23,152
Oats, bus	717	Poultry, lbs	801
Barley, bus	175	Grass Seed, bus	91
Corn, bus	815	Cattle No	15
Rye, bus	142	Butter, firkins	27
Highwines, bbls	25	Dressed Sheep	57

The wheat market was nervous to-day, and less active than yesterday, No. 1 Spring on track did not go outside of $1.60, except in one instance—a decline of 1@2c, which neither refused to accede to yesterday.—1@2c, which neither refused to accede to yesterday.—Extra sold at $1.06@1.07 delivered, and Club ranged at prices between these figures and the price paid for No. 1. Sellers to-day were more numerous than buyers. It is the general impression here at present that prices are too high, and that unless a material advance takes place in the seaboard markets, there must be a decline. Flour can not be bought here at prices to correspond with what wheat is bringing and shipped to the New York or Boston markets, except at a loss, and hence the scarcity of it in this article. Dressed hogs hold out firmly. Pretty much all on the market were taken early to-day at a range of $5.00@6.00 for averages of 170 to 200 lbs. Receipts to date amount to 45,265, including a few hundred live hogs. We did not hear of any transaction in provisions to-day.

CHICAGO, Jan 4th.—Receipts: 1,656 bbls flour; 10,142 bus wheat; 9,260 bus corn; 1,329 bus oats; 410 bus rye; 2,140 bus barley, 500 bus grass seed; 973 dressed hogs; 991 live hogs.

Flour—There was a better feeling in the flour market, and under a good inquiry it advanced fully 5c. At mid-day, the closing tone was buoyant, and $4.15@4.30 for low grade to table obtained hands, at $4.15@4.30 for low grade to choice—closing extra, and $4.35@4.40 for spring superfine. At the close of the market there was an active demand for round lots of choice at full prices, but buyers and sellers were apart. Wheat continues firm at 90c for No. 2 spring in store, and 97@100c for No. 2 to choice club on track. Corn was in better request, and the market was firm at yesterday's prices, with sales at 34½@35c for No. 2 in store, and 37@37½c on track. Oats were quiet but firm at 26c for No. 2 delivered. Rye in good demand and advanced 1c. Barley steady.—Receipts in fair request at 90c. Mess pork dull. Lard 9½@9¾c. Bulk meats in fair request at 9c. Cut meats are scarce, and the demand is good at the Baltimore prices. Whisky steady at 24c. Sugars and coffees are dull and nominal. Hams are packed. Lard was in active request, and about 100 bbls and tierces were sold at 9¾c, closing very firm at that figure—holders generally refusing to sell below it.—Press & Tribune, 5th.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 4.—Cotton firm; sales to-day of 1,000 bales at 10½@10¾c for middling. Sugar firm at 5¾@7¾. Pork closed buoyant.

Review of the Barley Trade of Albany for 1859.

From the Albany Evening Statesman.

The receipts of barley this year by canal have been very large, and when the official figures shall appear from the canal department will be found to equal, if they do not exceed the receipts of 1858, which had never been reached during any previous season. At a rough estimate, we place the receipts for the year 1859 at 3,000,000 bus. Should this estimate prove to be correct it will show that there has been an excess in the receipt of a new crop of 1859 over that of 1858.

In looking at our figures of prices paid for the new crop of 1859, we cannot fail to observe one singular fact: that is, the uniformity which has governed the range of prices of the article.

The highest price paid for State two-rowed was 87c for 1858 barley, and 82c the lowest price paid, and the highest price paid, and 82c the lowest price paid, and the lowest; although since the commencement of the season a greater quantity of two-rowed sold at one price than 82,000 bushels of 1858 barley at 86c.

The figures paid for four-rowed showed that in 1858 barley reached the, paid at 87c low as 84c; the new crop sold as high as 86c, and as low as 76c; but the ten sales making at 76@78c would place the range rather fairly at 74@86c. The quantity of 156,000 bus sold on a range of 74@86c four-rowed about equally divided—sold at 78c.

Canada East barley has been a prominent article in our market this year. Nearly 600,000 bus have reached the water, and sold at generally handsome prices. It has given, as is understood, good satisfaction, and should the crop of 1860 turn out as well as that of the present year, it will doubtless be eagerly sought after by our maltsters. The lowest price paid for this kind of barley was 74c, and 85c the highest; although some high sales were made as low as 74c.

Canada West, of the new crop, has been in good demand, and the sales have ranged at somewhat higher prices than any other description, large parcels having sold at 86c, and down to 81c; but sales of some unimportant lots were made as low as 78@79c. The sales of 1858 barley were at 84@86c.

We now give the aggregate of the reported sales of the season's business, with the average price of each description. It presents a very satisfactory statement of the aggregate result of the season:

1,300,000 bus two-rowed	75c	$127,300
156,000 " four-rowed	78c	567,800
400,000 " Canada East	78c	312,000
415,000 " Canada West	79c	329,125
300,000 " Western	78c	234,000
30,000 " Mixed	78c	23,381
2,701,000		$1,409,700

The average price of the whole sales is 78c 1/2 bus.

It must be borne in mind that the above embraces only the sales reported to us daily. Transactions, prior to what extent we know not, take place which never reach our books. A moderate estimate of those transactions, with the stock in store, which is placed at 350,000 bushels, would raise the aggregate trade of the city to at least 2,500,000 bushels, leaving more than one-third of the tide-water receipts to be divided between our New York and Troy friends, and to fill up cold corners on the river towns, not previously occupied, by purchases made below.

The average rate is lower than was generally anticipated; but when we take into consideration the lastdespite the assertion of the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser—that the stock of malt was larger than it had ever been on the incoming of the new crop, we see no reason for surprise in the result presented by the actual sales.
